Activity:
The Olympic games originated in Greece (around 3,000 years ago). Now, when athletes take part in the games, they wear clothing that shows which country they represent. Design a tracksuit, sports vest and shorts for the Great British Olympic team. 	The World Record for the long jump is 8.75 metres (by Mike Powell). Use a tape measure to see exactly how far that is and then see how far you, yourself, can jump. Keep a written record of all your jumps!	The Greek alphabet is different to ours and contains letters such as alpha, beta, gamma and omega. Find out the names of the other Greek letters and then try to use them to write your name. 	Write a book review of your favourite book. Think about why you like it, what makes it different from other books you've read and why you think other people would enjoy it. 	The Greek people created many myths and, as we know, those myths often involved monsters and strange creatures. Research those creatures and create a fact file for your favourite. 	Create a fact file relating to a famous Greek person. They can be a modern personality or a historical figure.	Duke Awards  Complete (if not already done): 1. Our Future 2. Computing Skills
