Find out why Dragons are so important in Chinese culture and write a short paragraph about it. Once you've done that, draw and colour a traditional Chinese dragon. 	Use the internet, books in school or your local library to research one of the Chinese Dynasties. Create a fact file, recording the important pieces of information that you find. 	The Great Wall of China is an incredible structure. Find out how long the wall is and then, using Google maps or an atlas, try to find other landmarks on Earth (natural or manmade) to see how they compare in size. For instance, is the wall longer than the River Nile?	Have you ever tried any Chinese food? Find out about some traditional Chinese meals and, if possible, make them in your kitchen at home. Let us know how your meal tasted and remember to take pictures! 	In China, people speak a variety of languages. Find out the most commonly used languages and then try to write your own name using one of the Chinese 'alphabets' that you find.	China is enormous and has borders with many other countries. Look at a map to find out which countries have borders with China and make a list.	Complete your 'Taking responsibility & swimming/washing dishes' units.
